

Festival Online Auction FAQs

Welcome to The Charleston Dragon Boat Festival's Online Auction!

DBC is not paying an outside source for auction management, so all proceeds from the auction support Dragon Boat Charleston's mission programs.

How does it work?

Teams participating in the Charleston Dragon Boat Festival donate items for the auction. Dragon Boat Charleston hosts the auction and collects payment from the winning bidder. After payment is received, the team captain is notified and makes arrangements to get the item to the winner.

Where can I find descriptions of the items?

The auction page provides a brief description of the items available. It is updated as teams submit items for the auction, so check back regularly! Some items have links for additional details and photos.

Please read the detailed descriptions carefully before bidding. They include detailed instructions and other important notes. Dragon Boat Charleston assumes no responsibility for the representation of the items or for the items themselves. Descriptions are submitted by the teams providing the items.

How do I bid on an item?

1. Under the item you wish to bid on, click on "CLICK HERE TO BID ON THIS ITEM."
2. Complete the form, including your minimum bid and your maximum bid.
3. Submit the form.
4. Check the auction page each day to see if you've been outbid. If you have and you'd like to increase your bid, click on the bid link again and update your maximum bid.

What happens if I win?

1. Winners will be notified with payment instructions via the email provided on the bid form.
2. Payment arrangements should be completed within three days.
 - a. Online payments should be made within 48 hours.
 - b. Checks should be mailed within three days.
3. If payment arrangements have not been made within three days, the next highest bidder will be contacted as the winner.
